HAS PENNA SOLD ITS C. & O. STOCK? GETTYSBURG VETS ARE HOME AGAIN

Telegram From Philadelphia Says That the Sale Has Been Made.

Survivors of Pickett's Division Bring Back the Sword of Armistead.

LOCAL OFFICIALS ARE SILENT CHANGE OF MARKERS ASKED

President Stevens Denied Report Before He Left for the West.

Those Placed by Battlefield Commission Do Not Correctly Show Where Pickett's Line Formed.

A telegram from Philadelphia says that the belief is growing that the Pennsylvania Railroad has sold a part of its Chesapeake and Ohio stock, and will make official announcement of the fact within a short time. Fourth Vice-President John B. Thayer is expected to resign as a director of the Chesapeake and Ohio at the next regular meeting of directors. Rumor has it that the decline to discuss the sale of the stock is due to the fact that the railroad is in a position to sell the stock at a profit.

The delegation of Virginia survivors of Pickett's division, which visited Gettysburg yesterday, returned to this city yesterday morning, after an exceptionally enjoyable trip, unmarred by any unpleasant incident. The party reached the city about 8:45, coming via the York River route. Their boat was slightly delayed by the fog, but experienced none of the hardships of the trip. The party was met at the hotel by a number of friends. All on board were well and in good spirits, and all were enthusiastic in praise of those who had planned and managed the trip.

Sword Given to Museum.
Captain Jeffries and Colonel C. T. Smith yesterday presented to the Confederate Museum in this city the sword of Pickett's division, which was returned to the Virginia Confederates last Saturday afternoon. This disposition of the relic was made in accordance with the request of the Pickett's division association, as announced at a meeting held about the last Monday night en route home. The sword and the brigade that are to remain in possession of the museum in perpetuity, unless claimed by some descendant of the dead general.

Show Where Pickett's Men Were.
Major Edmundson was requested to write to General L. L. Lomax, the Confederate member of the Battlefield Commission, asking him to have the markers placed to show where Pickett's men formed for their historic charge accurately placed. As now located, these markers are in a body of woods, indicating that the division was formed in this position, when a number of historical facts the command formed in the open field in rear of the woods, where it was exposed for two hours or more to the Federal artillery fire entirely without protection.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING NOTES

Operations in Erection of Houses That Winter Weather Will Not Stop.

ALL CONTRACTORS AT WORK

Lumber Mills, Material Factories and Brick Yards Overflowing With Much Business.

THE THEATRES

"Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway," at the Academy last night gave genuine pleasure to an audience that literally filled the house and filled the boxes. There were no empty seats. "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway" is a play by the famous Fay Templeton play "Mary" in the musical comedy on Broadway, and there was a lot of interest in the play. The play is a comedy, and it is a play that is a play. The play is a play that is a play.

"All we want is good weather this fall, with the real part of winter coming on late, and there will be more building carried on, more men employed in the work of erecting houses, and more houses completed between now and the first day of January than ever known before in the history of the city within a like period."

There spoke one of the leading architects of the city yesterday, and he is a man who knows whereof he speaks. There are now more houses in the course of building in this city than there were in May last, when it was said that Richmond was on the biggest building boom it had known since the city commenced to rebuild upon the ash heaps left by the great fire of 1862.

"Sergeant Kitty" To-Night.
The musical comedy, "Sergeant Kitty," will play at the Academy to-night and to-morrow. "Kitty" is a bright, pretty and graceful, the possessor of a good voice and commanding the hearts of her audience in a masterly way. The play is a play that is a play.

"On Parole."
Mr. Louis Evan Smith's latest play, "On Parole," which will be seen at the Academy Monday night is a first-class play. The play is a play that is a play.

Hap Ward.
The offering at the Hap Ward next week will be "Not Yet, But Soon," a musical comedy, with the popular comedian Hap Ward as the star, with Tony Daly.

Boys From Norfolk.
While Robinson and Henry Johnson, white boys, who claimed Norfolk as their home, were in Police Court yesterday morning on the charge of being suspicious characters. The Johnson boy said that he and his mother living on Bush Street, in Norfolk, and that he was a trained soldier. He said that he and Robinson had come to Richmond in search of work. They were taken to the office of the chief of police and the authorities in Norfolk will be communicated with.

Will Take Charge To-Day.
Mr. Samuel L. Woodin, who was elected temporary clerk of the Board of Health yesterday, will assume his new duties to-day.

Judge Designated.
Governor Stevenson yesterday designated Judge Frank P. Channing of Lynchburg, to hold a part of the September term of the Circuit Court of Hanover for Judge W. E. Barnes.

Mr. Eggleston Away.
Superintendent Eggleston, in charge of the city for a few days. Mr. Eggleston is at his home near Farmville.

Major Hunter Away.
Major R. H. Hunter, retired from the army, is at his home near Farmville.

Finance Committee.
The Finance Committee held a meeting last night and will meet again to-morrow. The meeting was of a routine nature.

EXPECT BIG CROWDS FOR STATE FAIR WEEK
Every Indication of Large Attendance—To Secure Accommodations for All.

Members of the Virginia State Fair Association, who two weeks ago conservatively estimated the attendance at the fair here October 9th to 13th at about 100,000, have now revised their estimate now to at least 200,000 more than at first, and all believe that at least 125,000 people will be here State Fair and Horse Show week.

At the headquarters of the fair, No. 707 East Main Street, inquiries are coming in so fast that the management has been forced to the conclusion that the first estimate of the attendance here to be too low. Entries in all the departments are coming in at a decidedly lively clip, and these prove that the management decided very wisely when they decided to build additional buildings to hold the exhibits, as every square foot of space in all buildings will be occupied the day the fair opens, and the gates to the stadium will be open.

Personals and Briefs.
John Brown left Thursday for Bedford, Va., where he will attend the Randolph-McDonie Academy during the coming season.

LAWYERS HAVE WARM WRANGLE

Messrs. Anderson and Wickham in Hot Debate Before State Corporation Commission.

JUDGE CRUMP DEMANDS ORDER

Declares Hearing Will Be Adjourned Unless Procedure Can Be Had Without Confusion.

Fast and furious was a cross-tiring debate between Attorney-General Anderson and Hon. Henry T. Wickham, counsel for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company before the State Corporation Commission, in the freight rate hearing yesterday, and at one time Chairman Crump threatened an adjournment if order was not restored.

Both the lawyers are high-spirited and impetuous in court, and they usually grow hotly excited in endeavoring to push or protect the interests of their clients. At times each was on his feet waiting and disputing at the other, while Hon. J. H. Williams was utterly helpless to restore the slightest semblance of order. The whole courtroom was in absolute confusion, and Judge Crump was pounding vigorously for order, while the two attorneys continued their heated debate.

Judge Crump finally threatened to adjourn court, and declared that the commission would not proceed with the hearing unless order was restored and preserved.

When quiet was finally secured the examination went on in the usual manner. This meant that they were all argued, so that but little progress was made with the examination during the morning session.

Was Never Personal.
There never was anything personal in the controversy, but from the appearance and excited utterances of the principals, one would have thought that a physical clash was imminent at any moment.

The attorneys sat and chatted pleasantly as they awaited the arrival of the commission, and during the time that followed some of the jokes that were told by other lawyers in the case concerning the incident.

The questions which provoked the bitter objection of Mr. Wickham were asked the witness, Major Anderson, and they related to certain contracts and reorganization and merger acts of the company.

Extracts were read in the same connection from old reports, which seemed to have important bearing on the financial conditions of the road.

The chief controversy arose over an act of 1903, which the Attorney-General claimed was a merger act, while Mr. Wickham contended it merely changed the name of one road.

The afternoon session proceeded without any unusual occurrence. Major Anderson continuing his cross-examination of the witness.

Have to Construe School Laws.
The Attorney-General and his assistant, Colonel Robert Collett, find considerable labor construing the school laws in connection with the school laws of the State. Whenever a local trustee or member of a district board gets stamped on any question arising they refer it to the Superintendent and he to the Attorney-General.

FOR SELLING COCAINE.
Julia Holmes Caught With Full Proof and Fined $100.
Julia Holmes, a negro woman, for selling cocaine, was fined $100 and ordered to jail for twelve months in default of security, by Justice Craftfield yesterday morning.

Officer Wiley worked up the case against the woman. He gave a quarter with his name written across it to a grocer, and asked him to purchase some cocaine for him. The boy went into the woman's house and returned with the dope. Then Officer Wiley, in company with Officer Parley, went to the rooms of the woman and found in her purse the marked quarter, and also secured several packages of cocaine.

Among the grocers the habit of selling cocaine appears to be increasing, and the police are almost daily landing one of the offenders behind the bars.

BOWLES NOT YET RETURNED
Major Cheatwood Will Take No Action Until He Has Had Conference With Him.

AT A DANGEROUS CROSSING
Two of Miller & Miller's Dairy Animals Killed and Three Injured.

Both Companies of Blues Hare at Work Preparing for State Fair Drill.

May Confer To-Day.
It is thought that the officers will meet today, and that immediately after the meeting Major Cheatwood will forward the resignations, either approved or disapproved, of all the line officers of the Blues to Adjutant-General Anderson, who in turn will present them to the Governor.

There is much speculation as to the outcome of the trouble in the Blues Battalion. One rumor is that Major Cheatwood will resign, and that Captain Bowles will be elected major. Another rumor is that Major Cheatwood will accept the resignations of his officers and continue as commanding officer, while yet a third has it that an outsider will be elected as major, and that Captain Bowles will resign, and that a company will be formed with the name of his son, who are reluctant to lose him.

Preparing for the Fair.
An officer of the line, whose resignation is in Major Cheatwood's hands, and who is held at the post office, is preparing for the State Fair, where they are entered in the military competition. "A" Company drilled last night, and "B" Company will drill to-morrow. The officers are still in command, and will continue to train the troops in the military competition.

The nuptials were celebrated in New York September 7th. The bride is a native, and for years a resident of this city, but has lived for several years in Danville and Newport News. She is a niece of Mr. James W. Elyson, of No. 11 North Third Street.

Jewish New Year.
Today is Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, and it will be appropriately celebrated by those of that faith throughout the world. The day is one of a festive nature and is also characterized by gift-giving and social features. Ten days after the festival comes Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, a solemn day, commemorated by self-denial and prayer.

Souvenir of the Shoot.
Mr. J. H. Williams, chief clerk to Adjutant-General Charles J. Anderson, has received a very unique souvenir of the recent Shoot. It is a rifle, which is a beautiful work of art, and it is a souvenir of the shoot. The rifle is a beautiful work of art, and it is a souvenir of the shoot.
